

Shordel Hurle For Cardinals In First Clash

Gave the crowd a big laugh. Gehrig up—Strike one called, strike two called; Shordel fooled Gehrig on two wide curves. Ball one high and inside; Shordel tried to catch Ruth off second but Ruth hit back to the base. Hafey took Gehrig's towering fly.

No runs, one hit, no errors. Cardinals—Fourth Inning: Hornsby up—Koenig first, got the St. Louis manager at first. Bottomley up—Strike one swung, foul strike two; Bottomley struck out on three pitched balls, letting a third strike sail over with his bat on his shoulder.

Bell up—Ball one outside, ball two inside, foul strike one; Bell tried to hit a triple but fouled the ball; ball three outside. Bell got a walk.

Hafey up—Koenig tossed out Hafey at first, Gehrig making a nice pick up of Koenig's low throw. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Yankees—Fourth Inning: Lazzeri up—Strike one called, foul strike two, ball one low and outside; Lazzeri struck out, missing a curve by three feet.

Dugan up—Ball one outside, strike one called, ball two low, ball three outside; Thevow threw out Dugan.

Severid up—Ball one low, Severid sent a fly out to Hafey. No runs, no hits, no errors.

St. Louis—Fifth Inning: So far the pitchers had the up-berhand of the batters.

O'Farrell up—Ball one inside, foul strike one, ball two outside; Mussel gathered in O'Farrell's house.

Thevow up—Foul strike one, Severid took Thevow's bunt and tossed him out at first.

Shordel up—Mussel took Shordel's pop fly back of short. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Yankees—Fifth Inning: Pennock got a hand; strike one called, ball one outside; Thevow juggled Pennock's grounder but threw him out.

Combs up—Strike one called, ball one outside, ball two low, strike two called; Combs singled into left.

Koenig up—Ball one outside, strike one called; Koenig hit into a double play, Thevow to Hornsby to Bottomley.

No runs, one hit, no errors.

St. Louis—Sixth Inning: Douthit up—Ball one inside; Dugan took Douthit's grass cutter and threw him out.

Southworth up—Ball one low and outside; strike one called; Southworth fled out to Mussel.

Hornsby up—Ball one inside, ball two inside, strike one called, ball three inside, strike two called; Dugan made a nice play on Hornsby's difficult hopper and tossed him out.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

Yankees—Sixth Inning: Ruth up—Ruth singled past Bell. The Yankee hitter choking his bat.

Mussel up—Mussel sacrificed, Shordel to Bottomley; Ruth racing for second.

Gehrig up—Ruth scored on Gehrig's sharp hit to right.

Lazzeri up—Ball one outside; Lazzeri singled past Thevow and when Gehrig tried for third he was thrown out, Hafey to Bell.

Lazzeri went to second on the throw.

Dugan up—Ball one high, Bell juggled Dugan's grounder, Lazzeri sliding safely into third.

It is now beginning to rain again.

Severid up—Strike one called, ball one outside, ball two outside; Severid forced Dugan, Thevow to Hornsby.

One run, three hits, one error.

St. Louis—Seventh Inning: The crowd stood up and began rooting for the Cardinals.

Bottomley up—Foul strike one, Bottomley went out to Gehrig, unassisted.

Bell up—Ball one high; Bell sent up a foul which Severid snared.

Hafey up—Foul strike one, foul strike two, ball one high; Hafey struck out. Pennock was pitching magnificent ball, not a hit being made off him since first inning when two were made.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

Yankees—Seventh Inning: Pennock up—Strike one called; Pennock went out Thevow to Bottomley.

Combs up—Strike one called, ball one low; Hornsby made a nice play of Combs' roller and tossed him out.

Koenig up—Koenig shot out a fly to Hafey.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

St. Louis—Eighth Inning: O'Farrell up—Strike one, ball one inside, strike two swung, foul, ball two outside, ball three low; O'Farrell got a base on balls, the fourth ball being wide.

Thevow up—Foul strike one; Thevow tried to sacrifice; The-

Hunters Discover the Tomb of Friend To Andrew Jackson, North of Athens

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Oct. 2.—(AP)—A party of hunters recently discovered the tomb of John Hutchings, friend and companion of President Andrew Jackson, in the forest about 20 miles northeast of Athens.

It is said that General Jackson often visited John Hutchings at his farm home in this section of the state. They served together in the Greek-Indian war and were very close friends. A will making General Jackson his sole heir, made by John Hutchings before his death, is said to still be on record in the local court house.

After the death of John Hutchings, General Jackson had a marble shaft made and engraved at Nashville. It was taken by ox wagon from Nashville and placed on the grave of Hutchings. It reads:

"Beneath this marble slab rests the remains of John Hutchings. He died on the 20th Day of November, 1817. Aged 42 years. Death is but the dawn Of life immortal."

The recently discovered tomb is not far from Ford's chapel Methodist church, which was established 125 years ago. Gen. Jackson often worshiped there with his friend Hutchings.

Five Persons Are Burned To Death

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 2.—(AP)—At least five persons were burned to death early today when fire destroyed the Sibley hotel and an entire block at Sibley, 30 miles east of here.

Pratt Ward Minchew, section foreman, his wife, Mrs. Minchew, their two sons, Arthur 15, and Pratt Ward, Jr., 12, and their nephew, Ben O'Gray of Castor are known dead. Three other persons are believed to have been burned to death. A man and his wife and babies were seen to get off the train, coming from Vicksburg, Miss., about nine o'clock and go to the hotel and register.

Their bodies are believed to be in the ruins. They have not been accounted for so far.

Well sir, you know if we could announce a pair of good sized industries for the Twin Cities, to begin operations during the coming three months, wouldn't that make a big difference in the outlook for 1927? Twin City money and Twin City work can make these industries possible. Twin City location will help the thing along considerably. It's a long road, this thing of attracting industrial manufacturers, but it is a paying job. Put a few hundred more to work in these towns and the other cities of the Valley won't be in it at all for hum and bustle.

SOMETHING SHOULD BE DONE TO LESSEN THE DANGER OF FLINT BRIDGE.

W. A. Phillips, a farmer of the Priceville community, in attempting to back off the Flint river bridge, to permit another vehicle to pass, was thrown to the ground and nearly killed.

Within the past few weeks a horse fell through a plank in the bridge and it was feared for a time that his leg had been broken. That accident would not appear so serious as the later one, but horses are valuable to farmers, none of whom cares to have valuable animals lost.

Go back over the years and searchers will find that the Flint creek bridge on the Somerville pike long has had a reputation for accidents. Many of a serious nature and many not of so much seriousness have occurred on the bridge, or on the very narrow, curving approaches to it.

The record of Flint creek bridge is convincing that it is only a matter of time until fatalities occur there. Surely, then, the duty of Morgan county citizens is not to wait for such an eventuality, but to take steps to reduce the chance of fatal mishaps there.

COLONEL WILLIAMS DROWNED IN HIS CAR IN SAN FRANCISCO BAY.

Alexander S. Williams, colonel in the United States marine corps, is dead and the famous "cocktail party" episode is brought to an end.

Colonel Williams was drowned in the waters of San Francisco bay early Friday when his automobile plunged off the wharf, pinning him inside. It was a tragic end for a career which, up to a short time ago, has given brilliant promise.

He drowned man recently was the center of a controversy which "waxed exceedingly warm" in and out of the marine corps circles. General Smedley Butler, ordered back to duty after having served as safety director of Philadelphia, went to San Diego to assume command of the marine district.

Possibly inspired by a spirit of courtesy, Colonel Williams gave a dinner party in honor of General Butler. Then, and later at a hotel, General Butler charged Colonel Mitchell gave evidence of having imbibed drinks barred under the prohibition act, and promptly ordered a court-martial. Colonel Williams was convicted of drunkenness and conduct unbecoming an officer and sent to San Francisco on recruiting duty.

There still will remain some who will wonder whether General Butler's satisfaction will be complete now that the late defendant is dead.

COMMUNITY SHOCKED BY SUDDEN DEATH OF ITS CHIEF EXECUTIVE.

The death of Dr. F. L. Carswell, mayor of Albany, at his home Thursday night, was a profound shock to this entire community. Dr. Carswell was one of its best known residents, a man who long had been identified with the upbuilding and the civic expansion of this community, and his loss will be felt keenly.

Dr. Carswell was a man of outstanding personality, a man of well formed opinions and a man who held the respect even of those who disagreed with him on political questions. He was frank in his decisions on questions of the day, and clung tenaciously to the right as he saw it. In all civic affairs his influence was felt, but it was in his wholehearted support of the cause of prohibition probably that he was best known.

The deceased was one of the pioneers in the dry movement. Long ago, as a physician and a citizen, he realized the harmful effects on the individual and community life of alcohol and his efforts always were directed toward its elimination.

He supported prohibition in the days when the support of the dry cause meant considerable personal sacrifice. As the movement grew and its numbers of supporters increased and the battle lines became taut, he never wavered, in victory or defeat.

Dr. Carswell was the type of militant dry without which the cause of prohibition never could have prospered. He lent his aid to the cause when such aid, of necessity, had to be backed by personal courage. That he had in abundance.

His counsel in the prohibition circles, in the churches and in the civic affairs of the city will be missed.

RED CROSS OFFICIAL FIRES SHOT AT CERTAIN OFFICIALS OF FLORIDA.

Some people may be counted on to do the right thing under any ordinary circumstances, but the wrong thing under stress of unforeseen emergencies. Possibly in the latter category fall some of the Florida officials, who have drawn the fire of national Red Cross officials, who charge efforts to minimize the effects of the Florida hurricane, in order that the reputation of Florida, as a resort state, may not be hurt.

If Florida officials have been guilty of such practice, and certainly the circular letter reported by Richmond authorities would indicate such, Florida has been guilty of making a mistake which will hurt nobody but Florida.

The other states of the union, following the Florida disaster, had only one thought . . . to render the quickest possible assistance to that storm swept section. Florida, it would seem, was worried lest the other states might think that Florida, by some unexplained chance, should have never permitted the storm to occur.

The hurricane was a natural disaster and was just as likely to visit its devastation on any other section as it was Florida. Earthquakes, floods, hurricanes and fires are no respecters of persons. They visit, in the ordinary, natural course of events, first one section of the world, then another. A providence, over which we have no control and of which we have really little understanding, decreed that Florida should be the victim on this occasion and Florida was the victim. Some good purpose, of course, was served. It may be obscure now, but it is not given to humans to understand all of the acts of God.

Florida should have recognized the fact that the other states of the union would not make capital of her troubles. The Red Cross desires only to render aid, as aid is needed, and surely it would have been more becoming to Floridians to have accepted this aid in a spirit of thankfulness than in a spirit of resentment.

A TRAIN OF THOUGHTS for the Sabbath and Other Days

BY J. E. BLAIR

Egotism is the anesthetic of inferiority, it is said. The dictionary meaning of "egotism" is: self exaltation, self praise. The first meaning, namely that egotism is "the anesthetic of inferiority" is a good one. It is suggestive; it gives rise to such considerations as the following: Egotism shows one is not wide awake to his faults—to his inferiority. Then, one is about "all in" when self and self accomplishments are ones stock in trade. One who indulges in beginning lots of sentences with the pronoun "I," and is really serious about what "I" think and what "I" can do, is shallow and weak. It must be borne in mind, however in this connection, that many people who do NOT take themselves seriously, use the pronoun "I" often times for convenience, and many without improper motive often talk of what they do. In other words the "shrinking violet" kind of modesty, need not always be in evidence. Now if one is shallow and weak, he naturally seeks to disprove it. He must put all his accomplishments in evidence or go down in defeat, he thinks. Take a person who is weak physically, he has to "do up." He can't start the day without some strong coffee, or a stronger substitute for real strength is some times used, it is said. When one is in physical pain, he must be made unaware of it by some drug, hence the dope fiend.

Those who are prepared to sympathize with the "egotist," know that back of the braggart is essential weakness.

But at the time Robin Hood beat "Hubert" at archery, Hubert prefaced his defeat by telling how his grandfather drew a great bow at the battle of Hastings, and kept saying "A man can but do his best," while on the other hand the winner, Robin Hood, must have expressed confidence in his ability, for in the story Robin Hood is called a "braggart" by an official. In other words, it is the hardest matter in the world to tell by a man's talk what he is. You can't tell whether he is a weak braggart, or whether his "talk" is simply an overflow of his spirits, energy and latent ability! One other thing in connection with "egotism" it is a worse descriptive word than "egoism." The last named word means "The doctrine that all the elements of knowledge are in the 'ego,' and the relations it implies or provides for." An "egoist" is a believer in this doctrine of egoism. Such a person lays great stress on the scripture "The Kingdom of God is within you."

a high return on their money.

If any concern in the field of real estate bonds is weak or unsafe, the attorney general will discover it and give the people the facts. He will not, however, allow interference with or arouse distrust in a great business that has produced two most important results. It has given the people housing and business facilities needed, at a time when old-fashioned lending agencies were practically inactive.

It has promoted with widespread building high wages and constant employment for mechanics.

A WAY will be found to weed out any weak or unsound concern, without taking any action that would disturb those whose savings are safely invested or that would check building enterprises and put mechanics out of work.

SOME old line institutions that would appraise real estate at sixty per cent of its real value and then lead sixty per cent of the under valuation would like to discourage sound financial enterprise that has made nation-wide building possible.

Attorney General Ottinger and Governor Smith will not be used as the agents of envious old-fashioned financial incompetency.

To protect constructive, sound financial agencies and to protect public confidence is almost as important.

Irritation of an Infant's Skin, Due to Improper Care or Clothing, Will Be Studied and Corrected by the Thoughtful Parent.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

BABIES are different from grown people. They cannot tell you in familiar language what is wrong with them, but if you understand a baby there are certain signs which tell you as plainly as words can what is wrong with the little thing.

The color of the skin is very important. The mere appearance of the child gives you a heap of information. If the infant is the normal, healthy child you desire it to be, its tissues are plump and firm. The skin is soft and velvety to the touch.

A newborn baby or a very young baby is decidedly red in color. This is the way it should be. If the skin is blue or mottled there is something wrong with the child.

The lobster-red appearance of a baby, just after flushing of the face. The next color is yellowish in tint. In two or three weeks, time, however, the skin takes on the clear rose-pink color which a nice baby ought to have.

The skin of an infant is very sensitive. A hot bath or rubbing of the skin will cause it to turn deep red in color. The skin is delicate, too, and is liable to chafe and chaps.

If the baby is coddled too much or improperly fed, the skin soon shows the effect of ill health. Because the skin looks irritated, and even though there may be an eruption present, we need not consider this symptom as an evidence of an actual disease of the skin. They are only the outward and visible signs of some internal disturbance. For instance, "prickly heat" as the mothers call it, is caused by having the child too warmly clothed. The excessive perspiration, which follows the over-dressing is responsible for the irritation of the skin.

May I say at this time that one of the common faults in caring for children is bundling them up too warmly? Summer and Winter many babies are decidedly over-dressed. I am always glad when I see a mother spread a sheet on the floor or on a wide couch and let the baby crawl and crawl and kick and squirm as much as it chooses without the embarrassment of any clothing whatever.

You know how irritating wool is to some skins. I could not be happy for a minute if I were forced to wear undergarments of wool. Many times little babies who have prickly heat have the condition because of the

Saturday Night Lesson For Sunday Thought

By GEONENDYKE

Sunday school lesson for October 3, 1926; lesson: Numbers 10: 12-13; 29-30. Golden text: "Gather thou with us and we will do thee good," Num. 10:29.

It may be presumption on my part to say this lesson is of peculiar interest to the world-wide scattered Jewish nation and to the Gentile world as well. In a spectacular way God has assembled his chosen people at Sinai about eleven months. It required about three months for God to assemble the Israelites in their Egyptian bondage, to organize them preparatory to their journey and deliverance in the land God had prepared and promised them.

Let me urgently request that a careful reading and study of the 17th, 18th and 19th chapters of the book of Numbers be made. No matter what lesson helps the student or teacher may have, the preparation of this lesson will be incomplete without this. Remember there were about 2,000,000 of these Israelites and then, get it, you can, what it meant to organize and lead such a multitude.

Early in this organization the old spirit of jealousy, covetousness and dissension appeared. Read gain about the "rods in chapter 17 and see in what a wonderful way God settled these troubles.

Another feature that developed at this time was the invitation of Moses to Hobab, his father-in-law, to go with them and be their guide through the wilderness. Strange he should do this when God had told him he would be the leader.

How prone are men these days to allow man instead of God. Yet Moses had such implicit trust in God that he said to Hobab, "Come thou with us and we will do thee good."

Considering there was nothing to be but the waste howling wilderness, this was a great promise. Hobab refused to accept the invitation just like men refuse today.

There are two things in the invitation we should think of in our day—the good we can get and the good we can do. The cloud and the ark were the only things visible that Moses had to offer. The cloud was to be a shelter in that burning desert during the day and light at night. This was the promise made by God for the protection of His people on the journey that should have been made in a fortnight, but continued for forty years. People have not changed much in our day; they let the interests of Zion lag when they should go forward. The comforting thought in concluding is that God as located a place for the happiness of all who will take shelter under his cloud and be led by it, His word and His spirit are, our guides.

N. Y. BONUS COMMISSION GOES OUT OF EXISTENCE AT END OF THIS YEAR

By RAYMOND I. BORST

International News Service Staff Correspondent

ALBANY, N. Y.—The New York State Bonus Commission will pass out of existence on December 31.

State Comptroller Vincent B. Murphy, of Rochester, who is fiscal officer of the state, draws the checks in favor of the men eligible to receive a bonus, announced today that the total number of claims paid up to September 1, amount to 399,667 out of a total of 114,995.

To date the total amount of bonus paid to World War veterans by his State is $47,117,366.67.

In addition to Comptroller Murphy the bonus commission is composed of State Treasurer Lewis H. Founds, Attorney General Albert Ottinger and Adjutant General glance of a bright eye, or a captivating smile." Which is easy to say.

By International News Service

CHICAGO.—Crime and beauty! The career of this combination—a duet which in its heyday, a quarter of a century ago ran riot through the courts and hearts of a half dozen nations—was recalled here today as police discussed the arrest in Detroit of the once famous "Chicago May" Churchill.

"Chicago May" has come down a peg or two since the wild daredevil days of her youth, when her dashing beauty and pretty smile thrilled the hearts of many a stalwart guardian of the law and brought her a personal pardon from President Montellier of France in 1904.

But today this once famous internationally crook lies in a Detroit hospital—held as a common streetwalker.

Frankish Voice

Her identity was discovered because of a freakish remembrance of her voice by a Detroit policeman. Recently while serving her sentence in the county jail at Detroit, May became ill and was transferred to the jail hospital for a major operation. The policeman, questioning her, was haunted by something vaguely familiar about her voice. She searched her memory, harking back to almost forgotten days, and finally charged the patient with being "Chicago May." The woman first denied, and then admitted her identity, apparently glad to at last discuss the old and brighter days with someone "who knew her when."

Newspaper clippings, already yellowing with age, show that the last printed record of May was when she dropped from sight in New York in 1919. At that time, she had once again talked herself out of imprisonment on a charge of attempted murder of the man she was living with. She had been pardoned two years before from an English prison where she had been sentenced to serve a 15 years sentence for her part in the attempt of "Dutch Gas" Miller, to kill her sweetheart, Eddie Guerin, famous in his own right as a Chicago crook, and whose love for "Chicago May" was a thing respected throughout the underworld.

Born In Dublin

May was born in Dublin 50 years ago. She came to Chicago when aged 13 and soon after started on a career as a petty shoplifter. Discovering that her pretty face and quick brain had often enabled her to circumvent the law when caught, she became bolder and soon became known as a daring fur thief.

Then she became attracted to Guerin and the two for years lived a hectic life of crime, always just beyond the outstretched fingers of the law. In 1900, the two went to Paris where they robbed the American Express Company, for which they were arrested. Guerin was sent to Devil's Island for life and Chicago May went to prison but again her beauty won, and she was pardoned long before the expiration of her sentence. She was loyal to Guerin and soon raised sufficient money to arrange his escape from Devil's Island. He turned to London and extradition was denied the French government.

Guerin later quarrelled with Charles Smith over Chicago May and Smith shot Guerin in the foot.

In the meantime, Chicago May drifted about, sinking gradually down the ladder to degradation. Finally, she landed in Detroit. She has been arrested there a score of times she told the policeman but before has always managed to conceal her identity.

Franklin B. Ward.

"An analysis of the figures covering the major percentage of the men who submitted claims under the bonus law had their claims granted," said Comptroller Murphy. "Out of the total of 44,995 applications, only 6,434 have been rejected. There still remains 8,894 claims to be disposed of before the commission goes out of existence."

Some veterans who saw service only long enough to put on and take off their uniform received bonus checks amounting to 33 cents but there were very few of these, the commission said.

A total of 25,174 veterans contributed their bonus to the Veterans Mountain Camp and the Disabled American Veteran's Unit. These contributions totalled $208,1965.

SESQUICENTENNIAL CONTESTS

Miss Margaret Thomas, state publicity chairman, gives the following information on the National Interstate Student contests to be conducted by the National Federation of Music Clubs, under the auspices of the Sesqui-Centennial Committee, in Philadelphia, November 1, 2 and 3.

Alabama entrants thus far number only three: Miss Nell Esslinger, contralto, Huntsville; Harold Townsend, tenor, Selma; Miss Frances Hopkins, soprano, Dothan. Has Alabama other musicians who will supply competition for these three? Or who will enter in other classes? Contestants will be of eight different types: Sopranos, tenors, violinists, contraltos; baritone, violinists and organists. Please notify Clarence, McClure Mobile, state chairman of Student Contest, at once. No Alabama contest will be held if there is only one entrant in each class. Should there be a Dixie District contest it will occur Saturday, Oct. 23rd, at some place central for the contestants from Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi and Kentucky, states comprising the Dixie District.

The national winner in each of the eight classifications will receive an award of $500 cash, and will appear in the recital by national winners to be held in Philadelphia, November 4. Persons under the age of 24 years are eligible to take part in these contests. Vocalists must perform entirely without words or music, but instrumentalists may use notes if they wish.

The purposes of these contests are to inspire to a greater effort in artistic achievement through the stimulus of competition; to give an opportunity for the student to evaluate himself by comparison with others; to give musical prestige to each state through its winners, and to demonstrate the important place given to music and music education in America.

FRIDAY THIRTEEN

Mrs. H. D. Burnum entertained the Friday Thirteen this week and she as substitutions, Mrs. Rucker Mason, Mrs. Morgan Stickney, Mrs. R. N. Harris and Mrs. W. M. Voorhies.

"FLAPPER" IS DEAD, LONG LIVE "MODERN"

Girls, are you "moderns" now, or still just "flappers?"

The "modern" was introduced recently by the Camp Fire Girls as a substitute for the "flapper" term. They maintained that "flapper," as now applied, means merely a girl with flighty brains. And they launched a national campaign to wipe off the alleged stigma.

As a successor, they nominated the term "modern." Thus, Lucy Laim, more justly describes the present-day girls—one who is industrious, ambitious and getting ahead in this world of woe.

The Camp Fire organization selected Colleen Moore, film star, to lead their campaign, declaring that she is most typical of the "modern." And Colleen, jumping into the fray with "modernistic" methods, has just completed a film called "We Moderns." It is an adaptation of Israel Zangwill's novel, and she plays the role of a young society "modern."

The picture, produced by John McCormack for First National, is booked for showing at the Princess Theatre, Monday and Tuesday.

INDIGESTION

North Carolina Lady Says She Had An Awful Time With Indigestion, Till She Took Black-Draught.

Pilot Mountain, N. C.—"For several years I suffered with a bad case of chronic indigestion," says Mrs. Sam C. Inman, of this place. "I had bad spells with my stomach. At times I had severe pains in my right side. My stomach would get upset and I would have an awful time. It seemed like everything I ate disagreed with me. I was a pretty bad shape."

"My husband had been using The Black-Draught for some time for indigestion. He had spells of it too, so he suggested that I try Black-Draught. I took some from his box, just to see if it would do anything for my trouble. It did me a great deal of good. My condition was brought on by a chronic case of constipation and, by getting relief from this, I found my general health was much better."

"We keep Black-Draught in the house all the time. Whenever I find I need it, I take several doses and thus report a bad spell of indigestion. It is a splendid medicine and I am glad to say so."

Cotton Situation To Center Much Of Discussion

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Five states will be represented at a conference to be held here on October 1 and 12. Delegates from Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana and Mississippi will be present.

The call was issued for the regional meeting by the United States chamber of commerce.

The conference will open with the discussion of production problems—credit, taxes, the liability and cost of labor and the possibility of reducing production costs. These will pave the way for consideration of the larger problems of diversification, surplus and the general cotton situation.

The second day will be given over to the discussion of marketing problems, marketing credit, transportation and local consumption of local production.

"The South," says the national chamber in its announcement, is rapidly becoming one of the greatest industrial regions of the United States."

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Lena Coder, vs. Wm. G. Coder. Circuit Court, Morgan County, Alabama.—In Equity.

In this cause, it appears to the Register that on September 8, 1926, the Register sent by registered mail, with return receipt requested, marked "Deliver to addressee only," a summons and a copy of the bill in this cause to the defendant, Wm. G. Coder, at 460 Seventh avenue West, Homestead, Pennsylvania; and that on September 24, 1926, said summons and copy of the bill were returned to the Register from the postoffice at Homestead, Pennsylvania, undelivered; and that after notice to the complainant of such return she has failed to furnish another address. It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made once a week for three consecutive weeks in the Albany-Decatur Daily, a newspaper published in Morgan county, requiring said defendant to plead, answer or demur to the bill in this cause by November 11, 1926.

This October 2, 1926.

Love Goes Adventuring in PARADISE

Author of SCANDAL OF BLINDNESS & VIRTUE
Published by arrangement with First National Pictures

Next morning, however, after a sleepless night, Sherwood let himself in early enough to catch Tony before he left for the Metropole. He had arrived at a plan.

And Chrissie gave him another egg and two more slices of bacon. "There's quite enough time," she said, Wendell.

Which was agony to Sherwood, though it drove the nails more firmly into his purpose. "See you to-night, then," he said breezily. "I'm going to spend the day with yacht brokers. No time to waste. I'll have something to show you after dinner. Don't forget to put in your notice. You must be free by the end of the week."

"Right O," said Tony. "Best of luck, old son."

And Sherwood nodded again, with just one look at Chrissie—the desire, the hunger, the jealousy—all of which she read.

And with his head bent over his plate and a loyal desire to do full justice to Chrissie's efforts, Tony talked as he ate.

"This is how Teddy was during the show," he said admiringly. "When he got hold of a good thing he put his shoulder to it and shoved it over. Nothing stopped him. Extraordinary how much better he is, too, under this diversion. As soon as I read the letter and gave him the chart to inspect, he clicked on and became as calm as a pond. It's awfully satisfactory to know that I'm doing him almost as good a turn as the one he's doing for me—for us. Six minutes more and I must nip."

"She gave him one more piece of toast," she said, "it is."

Tony gave a laugh and pushed the plate away. "I can't take on another ounce of cargo, old girl. Honestly."

"Oh, yes. Just that. You may have to miss your lunch to-day."

"Well,—" And he tackled it, just to oblige. And then he sprang to his feet and flung his arms out. "Who'd have thought that all this fuss about lunch because poor old Kitty screamed?"

The irony of it lay in the fact that the irony had been content with "Not for Joe" if Chrissie hadn't encouraged her sympathetically to continue. She brushed the cap and polished its peak. "I've never seen more of the sea than the Channel, she said, "

ALBANY TRAMPLED BY ST. BERNARD

Local Team Handed 108-0 Defeat At Saint's Field

Albany Hi school succumbed under the attack of St. Bernard College team Friday afternoon 108-0 in the most complete rout in the history of the local school. The Albany Purple warriors never got underway during the entire game and spent the afternoon watching Saint Bernard backs and end run fast and hard toward the goal posts.

Beginning at 2:30 o'clock in a burning temperature and the field shrouded in dust every time a play was reeled off by the Saint signal caller, the game was waged into the twilight hours, ending at 5:30 o'clock, after three-quarters had been played. With darkness gathering Albany and Saint officials conferred and called a halt to the interminable march toward touchdowns.

Albany Hi did not make a single first down. There are bright spots even in such heavy defeats, those spots were Herman and Henry Papenburg and Harry Stinson. Stinson staved off disaster in the early minutes of the game, while the pair of Papenburgs worked with might and main to halt the rush.

The Saints presented a brilliant running attack which could not be denied.

"Betcher Bale" On 'Bama Says Morgan Farmer

The quickest way to get out from under a falling cotton market was demonstrated Friday on Main street, Hartselle, according to word received here when a Morgan farmer offered to bet his five bales against half that much money that Alabama would win today in the fight against Vanderbilt Commodore.

The farmer is declared to have said that he knew the market was falling in cotton and he was willing to bet his five bales against half that amount of money that the Crimson Tide would win today. He is said to have stated he had more cotton he wished to bet the same way.

He was a former Alabama student.

MORGANITES HOLD FAIRVIEW CLUB

Hard Battle Ends With Count Of Six-Six

Morgan County Hi school battled its way to a 6-6 tie with Fairview Vocational school yesterday at Hartselle, in the first game of the year. Outweighed and lacking in experience, the Morgan team did not let up in its brave fight to stave off defeat.

Wilson finally loped through the Fairview team for the Morgan points. The kick for goal was low. Fairview missed its chance to kick goal when Morgan forwards block-

ATTENDANCE AT FAIR PLEASING

The Farmers Seem To Have Deserted To Go To Athens

By D. L. ROSENAU, Jr.
ATHENS, Ala., Oct. 2.—From the indications at the opening day, Wednesday, it would appear that new attendance records are likely to be set at Limestone Fair, the grounds and grandstands being crowded during the greater part of the day. Although the time is ideal for the gathering of cotton, many of the farmers appear temporarily to have deserted their fields and to have embraced the opportunity for several days of carnival spirit and carefree atmosphere. The purses for the races have been considerably increased this year, and with the large numbers of out-of-the-state horses present, race track rivalry is quite pepped up. The new floral hall, completed this summer, is filling a long felt need and providing more space for the exhibits along this line, and the stock pens are filled to capacity. Officials of the fair state that they expect the attendance the last of the week to set a new high mark in attendance records.

CIRCUIT COURT TO CLOSE

Circuit court will come to a close here Friday afternoon after a two weeks' session presided over by Judge James E. Horton. The first week was devoted to civil cases and this week to the hearing of criminal cases; local opinion is to the effect that the judge and juries have been unusually good and in practically all cases great satisfaction has been expressed as to the verdicts.

1641 BALES GINNED

Limestone county has ginned 1641 bales of cotton up to Sept. 16, according to County Cotton Statistician, John D. Spiegel. The amount ginned up to the same time in 1925 was 7627, which was a record for the county. Most of the ginning has taken place since the figures were released, however, and local experts estimate that around 10,000 bales have been ginned to date. It is believed locally that the crop for 1926 in this county will total around 35,000 bales. Cotton gins all over the county are running all night in order to handle the run that farmers are trying to make before rains might damage the condition of the product.

SOLICITOR-ELECT HERE

Hon. John R. Sample, of Hartselle, solicitor-elect of the Eighth judicial circuit, was a visitor in Athens this week, having a case in the circuit court. Mr. Sample carried this county at the last election and was greeted by a large number of friends while here.

PUTTING OUT DAILY

The Alabama Courier, local weekly newspaper, is putting out a daily edition of four pages each day during the Limestone County Fair, giving the latest town and fair news. The paper is distributed free on the streets of Athens and at the fair grounds.

SOCIAL

Joe Crawford has returned to Chattanooga after visiting Athens relatives. P. W. Hendricks was a visitor to Nashville this week. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Smith have returned from Memphis where they visited their daughter, Mrs. Joe Lyon. Mrs. W. E. Maples has returned from a Nashville infirmary where she has been very ill. Mrs. J. H. McCoy has returned from a trip to Nashville and Louisville. Judge O. Kyle of Decatur was a visitor at court and the fair here Thursday. Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Rodgers are expected to return from their honeymoon this week and to start housekeeping soon. Mrs. Nance F. Richardson left for Memphis this week after visiting Athens relatives.

Fairview made her touchdown with an aerial success.

Spectators remarked upon the clean game of the two teams and were well pleased with the opening result.

Morgan was without the services of J. Moss, tackle, who was lost early this week due to an injury to his knee.

FLOOD WARNING

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Flood warnings on the Mississippi river immediately above the mouth of the Missouri and for the Illinois river, were issued today by the weather bureau here. At Grafton, Ill., with flood stage of 18 feet, the river today stood at 20.6 with 21.8 predicted.

DECATUR MEETS FIRST DEFEAT

Coffee High Whacks Local Lads At Florence

Decatur Hi School was turned back in the first grid contest of the year yesterday at Florence when they met Coffee Hi, losing by a count of 32-0. On a field that burned beneath their feet with rays of a scorching sun and with a preponderance of weight looming above them, the Decatur team fought hard, but to no avail. The entire Decatur team worked hard in their effort to halt the Coffee rushes, but inexperience took its toll on the local lads and they were rolled back into the shadow of their goal posts to be overwhelmed by a stronger force. Decatur Hi fought hard through the long hot afternoon and deserved to return with a better score. The team did exceptionally well under the circumstances and showed sufficient fight to lead local folks to believe that they will take some tough opponents into camp before the year is ended.
